Government are pleased to direct that the total period of magisterial training prescribed for Probationary Assistant Commissioners be retained at six months, of which the training as a III Class Magistrate will be for four months and as a II Class Magistrate for two months.

ORDER NO. A. F. 5695-700—A. H. 115-46-1, DATED BANGALORE, THE 5TH APRIL 1947.

A number of Post-War Development Schemes submitted by the several departments of Government and scrutinised by the Policy Committee and the Finance and Co-ordination Committee, have been engaging the active consideration of Government for some time past. In connection with the measures to be undertaken for the development of the Veterinary and Animal Husbandry Services in the Post-War period, the Veterinary and Animal Husbandry Department has formulated twenty-six schemes, as detailed below, including two schemes for the development of fisheries, involving, during a period of five years, a non-recurring expenditure of Rs. 23·57 lakhs and a recurring expenditure of Rs. 74·10 lakhs. These schemes relate mainly to the improvement of live-stock including milch cattle, sheep breeding, poultry farming, and bee-keeping and fishery development and include also schemes for the expansion of veterinary aid on a more extended scale, for the control of outbreaks of diseases and for attending to cattle ailments.

The several schemes formulated for consideration of Government are indicated in Statement I appended.

The schemes for the improvement of live-stock include free distribution of 150 stud bulls every year, the award of premia to 150 selected private bulls, at the rate of Rs. 100 per bull per annum under certain conditions and the organisation of 40 one-day hobli shows in selected villages as an encouragement to cattle breeding in rural areas. It is expected that this scheme will bring up 200,000 heads of superior type of cattle valued at two crores for the next five years. A scheme for the establishment of Cattle Breeding Stations, one for the Hallikars Cattle in Hassan District and one for the Malnad Giddas at Anandapuram and the starting of five more Amrit Mahal Economic Farms have also been formulated. The existing cattle breeding station at Ajjampur is also proposed to be expanded. These farms are expected to yield 750 stud bulls every year for distribution all over the State. There are also schemes for the establishment of farms for the improvement and propagation of a better type of milch cattle—one farm for Sindhi cows at Hessaraghatta and one in Habbanghatta Kaval—Hassan District for Hallikar Cattle and one for Buffaloes at Sulekere or Bhadravati in the Shimoga District.

The expansion of sheep breeding and improvement of production, utilisation and marketing of wool form an important part of the five-year development programme of the Veterinary Department. With this view, schemes have been formulated for establishing sheep farms in all the districts except Shimoga, which is unsuited for this purpose, to serve as breeding centres for producing stud rams of standard wool and mutton quality for distribution in the rural areas. To encourage sheep farming amongst the raiyats, subvention flocks are also proposed to be introduced in all the districts. The crude, uneconomic and slow method of hand-shearing now in vogue will be replaced by machine-shearing for which purpose machines have been imported and additional shearers employed. Sheep Breeders' Associations are proposed to be started for all the districts except Shimoga. Two milch goat farms are proposed to be started in the goat-breeding areas of the State, with a view to improving the milk yield of local goats.

A State-wide development of poultry farming is also to be undertaken by establishing additional poultry farm centres and improving the existing ones. These improvements will, it is expected, give about 150 thousand table eggs in addition to 15 thousand pullets and as many cockerels of six months' age for purposes of distribution.

With the dual purpose of providing a profitable side-line in poultry-farming and with a view to the biological control of the snails responsible for the spread of liver-fluke diseases in cattle and sheep in irrigated areas, it is proposed to establish duck farms in Maddur and Hessarghatta tanks. Veterinary aid on a more extensive scale to the agriculturists will also be made available and for this purpose 105 more dispensaries are proposed during the next five years.

These schemes, while being of greatest assistance to the agriculturist, will materially improve the cattle wealth of the State and are planned with the intention to increase the economic prosperity of the raiyat in a large measure.

A scheme for the development of bee-keeping is also included. This scheme provides for marshalling the bee-forces of the State for increased food production, in respect of not only agricultural crops but also of honey itself. The plan of work contemplated in the scheme is (a) to popularise and develop bee-keeping as a cottage industry throughout the State by establishing bee-keeping centres, and (b) to introduce improved methods in honey tapping and collection and to improve the honey market.

With a view to developing and exploiting fresh water fishery resources in the State, to provide the much needed nutritive food to the people, two schemes for Fishery Development in the State have been proposed. Fishery development includes the improvement of fish productive capacity of rivers, tanks and reservoirs by effecting conservation measures and by stocking them with better species of fishes in large quantities. A scheme for the establishment of a Fishery Research Station and an Acquarium at Krishnarajasagar is proposed for the investigation of important fishery problems which is essential for proper development of fisheries and to impart knowledge of the acquatic life to the people.

These schemes were duly considered by the Policy Committee for Agriculture and further scrutinised and approved by the Co-ordination and Finance Committee with suggestions or modifications wherever considered necessary.

The Finance and Co-ordination Committee approved all the schemes excepting schemes Nos. 9, 15, 18, 21, 22 and 23 which are proposed to be dropped. The 20 schemes approved by the Committee involve a non-recurring expenditure of Rs. 12·93 lakhs and a recurring expenditure of Rs. 46·88 lakhs spread over a period of five years. The annual addition to the recurring expenditure at the end of the fifth year is anticipated to be roughly about Rs. 10·5 lakhs.

With a view to implementing the recommendations of the Committee and to facilitating the taking up immediately of the execution of the five-year programme, Government were pleased to sanction from time to time certain schemes, as noted below, either in full or in part as and when detailed proposals were received from the Superintendent, Veterinary and Animal Husbandry Services and circumstances warranted their being operated upon with success :—

Schemes Nos.—

1. Training of Veterinary Personnel.
2. Opening of Rural Veterinary Dispensaries.
3. Live-stock Improvement Scheme.
4. Starting of Sheep Farm in each District.
6. Introduction of subsidised flocks in the State.
7. Machine shearing of sheep on an intensive scale.
25. Establishment of Fisheries Research Station at Krishnarajasagar.
26. Development of Fisheries in the State.

Government are now pleased to convey general administrative sanction to 11 other schemes detailed in Annexure I. The Superintendent, Veterinary and Animal Husbandry Services, is requested to submit detailed proposals to give effect to them with special reference to the staff to be recruited and the scales of pay to be given to the various special jobs and other relevant details.

As regards the other remaining schemes, the Superintendent, Veterinary and Animal Husbandry Services, is requested to see that suitable action is taken as per instructions detailed in Annexure II and a report of action taken submitted to Government for information.

Government are also pleased to direct that Scheme No. 15 regarding the establishment of a Government Turkey Farm in the State be postponed and that Scheme No. 18 regarding construction of cattle dipping tanks be dropped.

They further direct that the Bee-keeping Section, which is at present under the control of the Agricultural Department, be retransferred to the Veterinary Department with its existing personnel and that the Hessarghatta Grass Farm, which is at present under the control of the Military Department, be transferred to the Veterinary Department.

The expenditure involved on account of the schemes sanctioned above will be met from the funds provided for post-war schemes in the budget of the Department during the current year.
